My Diary

FOREWORD...

June 1, 1954

Dear Diary,

Tonight was an important night for me, but a sad one, for just a few hours ago I became an alumna of Salem Academy. What a wonderful year it's been, and as I look back, I can't help but think how much each day has meant to me. Salem has given me more than just knowledge of books; it has given me friendships among both students and faculty, friendships which will last for the rest of my life. The high standards which uphold this school have found their way into my principles, and the spirit behind every event and organization at Salem, whether athletic, social, or academic, will carry me through college and through whatever career follows.

IN DEDICATION

Every seaman has his north star; every student has his guiding light. Here at Salem, this guiding light is also our friend, helper, and constant inspiration. Her busy schedule is never too full for her to listen to our troubles and to give us wise advice. If we go astray academically, it is she who urges us to direct our thoughts and energies toward higher goals. She understands our shortcomings, and helps us to overcome them. She applauds our accomplishments, and censures us when we are at fault. It is this personal interest in each Salemite which makes us love her so.

Because you mean so much to us, we are proud to have this opportunity to show our love and appreciation by dedicating to you, Miss Weaver, this, our 1954 Quill-Pen.

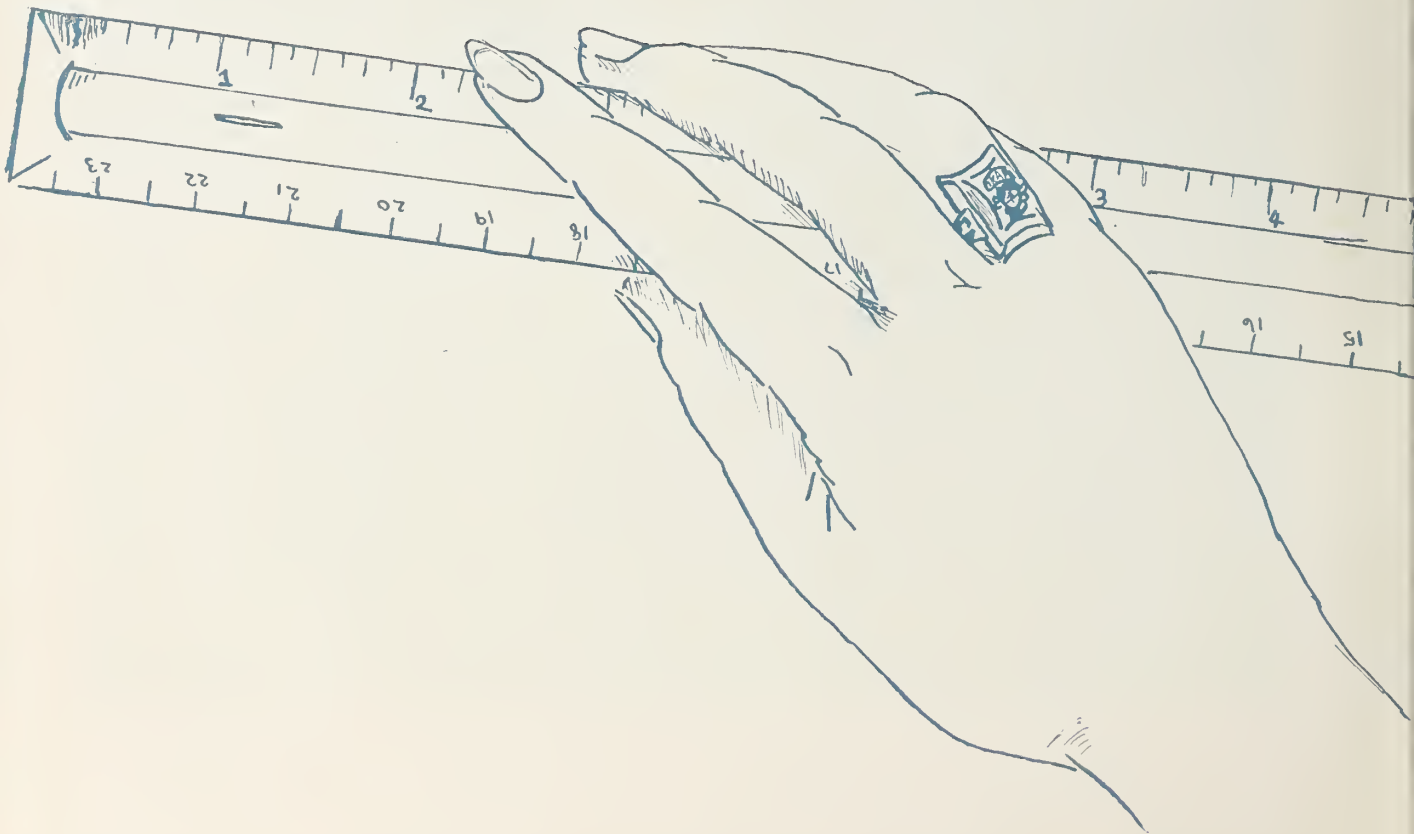

MISS MARY A. WEAVER

ADMINISTRATION

Here on the desk beside me is a ruler. What could more fittingly represent Salem's faculty? Giving us their constant attention, looking after our troubles and cares, teaching us all that we are willing to learn, they guided us in a straight line and offered standards for us to measure ourselves by.

Faculty and Staff

CLASSES

Every class is striving toward earning this diploma which tonight I received, but there are many goals for each class which come before this final event. This year, with the co-operation of every girl, they realized their highest aims. But best of all, while each worked on its individual activities, there remained a bond of friendship and companionship between them all . . . Freshman, Sophomore, Junior, and Senior.

Senior Class Officers

Makie Griffin, Treasurer
 Barbara Rowland, Secretary
 Helen Middleton, Vice-President
 Carolyn Brookshire, President

Senior Class

The activities of the Senior Class are soon under way with the side-splitting "Senior Doy." Following the maxim, turn about is fair play, the Seniors exchange places with the faculty and rule the roost for a day. They teach classes, and present an entertaining skit based on faculty impersonation. Among the outstanding events during our Christmas season at Salem are the Senior Bozoor, which helps the students with Christmas shopping; Senior Vespers, the impressive candlelight service; and the gay round of Christmas carols which Seniors sing at doybreak at the morning we leave for Christmas holidays. The excitement of graduation again brings the Senior class into the spotlight. The Seniors, with the aid of Miss Nunn, play hostess to the faculty at breakfast. On Class Day we see the result of many weeks of hard work; at graduation that night we see the result of four years of hard work as the class of '54 joins ranks with alumnae everywhere.

Junior Class

The Junior class, having as their ultimate aim for the year the Junior-Senior, frantically scrape and save every penny. Its main source of income is the Duck Inn, which they manage until the Spring of the year; in addition, the sale of buns, Sunday morning coffee and doughnuts, and refreshments for the school movies help fill its treasury.

Sophomore Class

The small size of the Sophomore class does not prevent its participation in the annual social program of Salem Academy. The Sophomore skit usually comes early in the year, and the class willingly accepts its responsibility for providing the student body with two movies. After Spring Vocotian the Sophomores come to the rescue of the Junior class by assuming the responsibility of keeping the Duck-Inn.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Blackwell the members of the class plan for a Teo Donce, which they have in honor of the Seniors on the afternoon of Junior-Senior. The Senior beauty queen is crowned at the Tea Donce, thus adding to the excitement of the occasion.

Freshman Class

The Freshman, not to be outdone by the other classes, offer their services from the beginning of the school year by faithfully raising and lowering the flag each day. They also contribute their share of the school entertainment with an annual skit and an occasional movie.

Harrar hauses and games of chance remind us that it is once again time for the Freshman Spring Carnival! Shrieks of terrar and cries of delight are ample proof that the Freshmen, under the leadership of Miss Rawlins, have once again brought their venture to a successful climax.

ORGANIZATIONS

This citizenship honor medal naturally reminds me of the citizenship honor awards, but it also is significant of all the honors and organizations at Salem, for in each and every one, from the Glee Club to the Academic Marshals, is exhibited the same enthusiasm, co-operation, and good nature.

Honor Graduates

Proving that they don't spend all their time studying, Ann Weaver and Martha Anne Bowles, who won Salem's top academic honors, start out for a walk across campus.

President of the Student Body

We naturally connect Barrie Altvater with this pose at Student Body meeting every Wednesday night when she, as Student Body President, gives us the decisions of the Student Council about our dormitory and social life.

Academic Marshals

Student Council

What would a new Salemite do on her first day at school if it were not for the girls on the Student Council, who rush to greet her, to show her to her room, and to help with the bags! However, this is not the only job of the Student Council. Composed of the student hall representatives, the Senior counselors, and the President of the Student Body, this group sponsors such school activities as the opening banquet, the Christmas banquet and servants' party, and the Spirit Fire Ceremony at the end of the year. Furthermore, each Student Council member is ready to help and advise any girl, whenever she is in doubt or trouble. Council meetings are held once a week so that the council may talk over everyday problems and plan things to improve dormitory life here at Salem. The decisions they make are announced in Student Body meetings on Wednesday nights.

Honor Council

The honor system and all it stands for are the most valued possessions of Salem Academy. Upholding the rules and furthering a sense of honor in each and every girl, the Honor Council sets an example for us to follow. Its members try to better academic honor and study hall behavior.

They meet after light bell to discuss undesirable situations and to help girls improve their honor. The Council is composed of the President of the Student Body, two Senior members, two Juniors, one Sophomore, one Freshman, and the sponsor, Miss Palmer.

A good Salem citizen has honor, and these are the ones who promote it. FIRST ROW: Morgot Moore, Borrie Altvater, Sherry Lynn. SECOND ROW: Jane Richards, Harriet Cannon, Martha Anne Bowles, Morie Watson, and Caralyn Brookshire, President.

Spiritual Steering Wheel

The Spiritual Steering Wheel, better known as the S.S.W., promotes the religious life at Salem. The main responsibilities of this group are sponsoring nightly hall devotions and Sunday afternoon vespers. Every year the S.S.W. sponsors various charity projects such as collections for needy families at Thanksgiving. In the spring children from a local orphanage are entertained at a party sponsored by the S.S.W. Both groups, young and old, have a marvelous time. The group's main project, Religious Emphasis Week, brought to Salem this year the Rev. Goodson, District Superintendent of the Methodist Church in Winston-Salem. Rev. Goodson spoke at chapel, held informal group discussions each night, and personal conferences during the day. His magnetic personality and inspiring talks save him a place in the heart of each Salemite, and assured the S.S.W. that they had made no mistake in choosing their minister.

Dramatics Club

Is everyone in place? Curtain going up! OOPS! Wait a minute, I don't have my knitting! Okay, I'm ready now! These are only a few of the phrases that one might hear if he were backstage on an opening night. Dramatics is not all fun; it takes more hard work than an ordinary person realizes to present a finished production. To reward these efforts the Dramatics Club awards points to girls for their work either as actresses or members of committees. When a girl has earned ten points, she is allowed membership in the club. This membership entitles her to purchase a ticket to the Little Theatre productions.

Three one-act plays, "Better Off Dead," "Pyramus and Thisbe," and "Will O' the Wisp" were presented by the club during the first semester. In collaboration with the Glee Club the Dramatics Club presented a Christmas pageant, and in the spring, the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "The Mikado." The club's biggest single production, a three-act play presented in late winter, this year was Moliere's comedy "La Malade Imaginaire."

Actresses and stage hands alike pause in the Reception Room before going to the Little Theater. Seated on the floor are Anne Nicholson, Claire Connan, Mortho Wood, Louise Cannon, Alice Eller, Ann Palmer, Patsy Treglawn, and Sallye Long. On the back row are Pat Upton, Anne Smith, sponsor Miss Strunk, Mory Ann Rose, Flo Robinson, Borrie Altvoter, Bobbie Plummer, Goyle Cooper, Ann Weaver, Celio Carter, Helen Middleton, and Margie Smith.

Just give them their note, Sollye, and music will fill the air. Waiting for the starting signal are Sallye Long at the piano, and ROW 1: Louise Cannon, President; Makie Griffin, Secretary-Treasurer; the Double Octette, composed of Claire Connan, Ann Nichalsan, Ruth Currie, Nancy Banduront, Mary Ann Medford, Lindo Borden, Nan Sellers, and on ROW 2: Nancy Coulter, Joon Brooks, Judy Cox, Mortha Ann Bowles, Teensie Harris, Ann Palmer, Babbie Plummer, Jone Duncon, and Mory Elliot Brinn. ROW 3: Miss Sampson, Pat Upton, Cothy Hyde, Sollie Norton, Ann Fulenwider, Bucky Poole, Jennie Payne, Bobs Tyson, Nency Robinson, Lindo Brome, Pat Murray, Ann Weaver, Marionne Mull, Janet Nixon, Jonie Deane, Betty Cormichael, Joni Thompson, Martha Wheeler, Morgot Moore, Solly Cochron, Sallie Armfield, Mary Moore, Clarke Fowler, Judy Morton, Van Lindley, Priscillo Norris, Annie Gray Colhoun, Sherry Lynn, Patsy Treglown, Alice Eller. ROW 4: Mary Wiley, Bebe Whitoker, Margie Smith, Goyle Cooper, Pat Parter. ROW 5: Mary Ann Williams, Borbora Ivey, Lucy Meode, Jane Richards, Ruthann Rhodes, Mory Keith, Edwina Rooker, Frankie Beman, Mary Ann Rose, Pot Spencer, Gerrie Fuller, Button DeBow, Mario Arnold, Helen Middleton, Marian Hutter, Sondro Roberts, Jane Kearns, Corol Jenkins, Borrie Altvater, Anne Smith, Celio Corter, Mortho Wood, Betty Billups, Morie Watson.

Glee Club

One doesn't need to be a prima donna to join Salem's Glee Club, for any girl who loves to sing is welcome in this popular organization. Just one glance at rehearsals on Tuesday or Friday afternoons proves that the majority of Salem students are music lovers. Girls with particular interest and talent in voice are chosen from this group to form the double octette. Singing is not only a pleasure, but also an accomplishment. Under the direction of Miss Sampson the Glee Club performed at the Patrons' Tea in the fall. Christmas kept them busy with a program at Lloyd Presbyterian Church and the annual Christmas Pageant. This year the Glee Club has also been guest choir for a Sunday at the Home Moravian Church. During second semester the Glee Club, with the assistance of the Dramatic Club, presented the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta The Mikado. The Glee Club completes its full schedule by closing the commencement recital.

Scribbler's Club

The Scribbler's Club, sponsored by Miss Nancy Fisk, is an organization which encourages girls with talent in creative writing to express themselves. After undergoing the process of reorganization, it has become one of Salem's most active clubs. In early fall it gave its traditional party for the entire student body. This year it has published two papers, the Quill Pencil, which is devoted to creative writing; and Pencil Shavings which reports on current events of interest at Salem. The Pencil Shavings is also sent out during the summer to spread news of old students' vacation exploits, and to welcome new students. Informal monthly meetings are held during which the members, while drinking coffee, plan and discuss their papers and exchange ideas about good creative writing.

Quill Pen Staff

What would a school be without its annual? Most students take their yearbook for granted, but few know what a job it is to produce one! From the moment the members of the newly-chosen Quill Pen Staff are announced, until the last line of copy is mailed to the printers, not a day of peace passes. The Business Staff, led by its manager Martha Ann Bowles, struggles to meet the budget by soliciting ads from Winston-Salem businessmen, Salemites' parents, and other out-of-town prospects. The Editorial Staff, led by Editor Martha Wood, finds its deadline as hard to meet as the Business Staff does the budget. After passing the first hurdle, the theme, they plan the layout and draw the dummy. Next they direct all their energy toward the photography and copy. Finally, at the end of the year they present the object of their labors to the faculty and student body at the Senior Farewell Banquet.

Dance Committee

One of the busiest organizations at Salem Academy is the Dance Committee, which works hard to give us the many dances we enjoy so much. Their job includes planning and decorating for the dance, ordering refreshments, sending invitations, and securing the all-important music. How much we do appreciate all this hard work when we are having the time of our lives at one of the dances!

Committee Chairmen

The six committee chairmen have some of the most important jobs at Salem, for they direct many phases of our school life. Every member of the student body is a member of one of these committees. The Service Committee is in charge of the "Lost and Found" sales, straightening classrooms and placing napkin rings, and they act as switch board messengers. The Social Committee plans the birthday banquets, teas, and some Saturday night programs. The Good Will Committee sees that the girls in the infirmary get their books and assignments, and that the kitchenette rules are posted and observed. Arranging chapel programs is the duty of the Program Committee. The Community and World Service Committee collects contributions for the World Service Fund, and sponsors the adoption of a foster daughter. The aim of the Standards Committee is to keep the standards of the individual students and of the school as a whole on a high level.

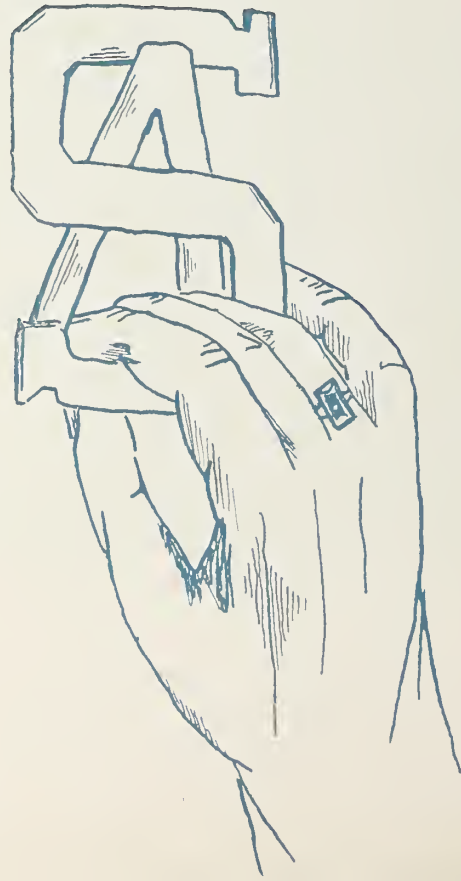

A busy day calls for fresh air. Patsy Treglawn, head of World Student Service Committee; Babbie Plummer, head of Standards; Jane Kearns, head of Good Will; Margat Maare, head of Service; and Linda Barden, head of Social, take a minute off to go out on the sun porch. Tibby Ferrell, head of Program, is not pictured.

SPORTS

"Come on, let's go to the gym," is the cry I hear as I hold this letter. All the fun and excitement of the soccer, basketball, and softball games are revived. I remember not only the cheers and shouts during the game, but also the congratulations of the losing team, and Purples and Golds leaving the field arm in arm. If only a little of the good sportsmanship and team spirit shown in Purple-Gold contests could be absorbed by the rest of the world.

Athletics

On the first Saturday of the school year the athletic season at Salem Academy begins. On this day the Purple-Gold teams are drawn, and afterwards the two newly-chosen teams compete in the annual tug-of-war. We have a wide range of sports here at Salem. Early fall brings golf and volleyball; then we chase the little white ball in hockey and play soccer in late fall. Winter is lightened by basketball and speedball. Spring brings us tennis and softball. Ping-pong and badminton tournaments arouse keen competition throughout the year.

We have a governing body for sports, the Athletic Council, which is made up of the heads of the seven major sports, heads of tennis, riding, and individual sports, the team heads, Babs Tyson and Anne Harris, and our instructor, Miss Palmer. This council plays an important part in our Athletic Association by promoting Athletic banquets, fair play on the field, riding, morning walks, good posture and good sportsmanship.

In order to recognize achievement in sports, points are given for the different activities in which a girl participates. 350 points, the number necessary to be eligible for an award, are obtained by such things as tournament participation, varsities, morning walks, and hiking. These points lead to letters for the Freshmen, emblems for the Sophomores, plaques for the Juniors, and the coveted loving cups for Seniors. At Recognition Day Chapel these awards are presented by the team heads, after which the year is brought to a climax by the awarding of the cup to the winning team.

Morning Walks

Helen Middleton, Bobbie Plummer, Barbara Ivey, and Nancy Robinson appear mighty cheerful for a 7:30 morning walk.

Volley Ball

Better make it a good one! Janie Deane demonstrates a volleyball serve to Carol Jenkins, Nancy Robinson, Jane Kearns, and Gayle Cooper.

Riding

Soccer

"Take it, Teensie," yells Gerrie, "and watch out for Jane Richardson." Geared for action are Sherry Lynn, Harriet Cannon, and Makie Griffin.

Hockey

Will they make a goal or won't they? Struggling over the little white ball are Marian Hutter, Ann Fulenwider, Nan Sellers, Mary Ann Rose, Eve Hoover, Martha Wheeler.

Body Mechanics

The Egyptians had nothing on Salem when it comes to building pyramids. Much more lively than stone, Mary Jo Futrell, Priscilla Norris, Annie Gray Calhoun, on Row 1; Nancy Bondurant, Betty Billups, on Row 2; and Janet Nixon on Row 3, pile up in a Body Mechanics project.

Basketball

Babs Tyson is determined to get that ball. Competing with her for it are Sandra Roberts, Judy Morton, Sallie Norton, Mary Keith.

Speedball

Nothing like a fast Speedball game to warm you up on a freezing day. Burning up fuel trying to win this game are Janice Ausmus, Barbara Rowland, Lucy Meade, Mary Keith, Clarke Fowler.

Softball

That's one ball Mary Jane won't have to catch and Patsy's pretty excited about it! Mary Jane Goodykoontz, Sallie Norton, and Mary Ann Medford play, while Patsy Treglown, Frances Beman, and Button De-Bow look on from the side.

Tennis

The pause that refreshes, but let's get back to the game! Sally Cochran, Joan Brooks, Sara Parker, and Carol Sherrill take a well-earned time-out between sets.

Golf

"Fore," yells Sallie. But which one? Norton, Long, or Armfield!

Hiking

Fifteen points and fresh air! Come on, girls, let's look happy about it! Pat Porter, Maria Arnold, Mary Ann Williams, and Marianne Mull head for the park.

ADVERTISEMENTS

It is getting late and I must close. I only hope that I may never lose what I gained at Salem, wherever I may go and whatever I may do.

Signed:

A Salemite of '54.

You're Missing Something

Yes, you're missing something—unless you already know about the World Affairs Program.

More than two hundred North Carolina schools, one hundred adult groups and tens of thousands of enthusiastic readers are enjoying the Program each week.

You and your school or club can join in the fun and share in the solid achievement offered by the Program. A postcard to the Director of School Programs, Journal and Sentinel, will bring you without charge the 48-page Guide and put you on the mailing list for the weekly quiz.

The World Affairs Program of the Winston-Salem Journal is recognized as the finest educational venture of its kind in the nation. Yet it is only a part of the unique school program sponsored by the Journal and Sentinel newspapers and WSJS Radio and Television.

The Spelling Bee—On WSJS
Television this year.

Freedom Forum—9:30 p. m.
every Wednesday on WSJS Television.

North Carolina Scholastic Arts Exhibition—
Arts Council Center, Winston-Salem, N. C.
February 20-March 6.
